

Deanne Zenoni DVM, CVSMT, CVMRT

I started in the rehab world in 2006 after my dog became injured and needed therapy. This brought me to be trained in acupuncture, spinal manipulation (VSMT), and massage and rehab (VMRT) therapies. I have found this veterinary medicine field exciting, challenging, and highly passionate about it. It is amazing to be able to help a dog walk again or a dog in pain have a better quality of life. I have had dogs return to being more active than they have in years. It gives me many more tools than I had available as a general practitioner. Since I started in this area, I feel that the awareness and availability of therapies have grown tremendously. However, so many pet owners still don't know these modalities are available for their pets, and veterinarians don't know when or where to refer them. Being a faculty at the Healing Oasis has allowed me to share my passion and knowledge and has been amazing over the past several years.
