

Douglas J. Gould, PhD, FAAA

To me, teaching is more than just a one-way transfer of information; it is a multidirectional exchange of information, ideas, and opinion - between me and the class and amongst class participants. My role as an educator is to facilitate and nurture those exchanges. I have yet to teach a class where I didn't leave with more information than I went in with and new perspectives that I hadn't yet appreciated.

